

Indiana has the most onerous and unreasonable do not call regulations in the U.S. Companies and individuals who maintain an established business relationship with a phone subscriber should be exempted from do not call rules.